High Road
Transition: Building
Shared Prosperity
on the Pathway to
Carbon Neutrality

The AB 398 report offers a vision for uniting California's bold climate action and shared prosperity agendas.

---

Climate policies and investments impact the number and type of jobs in the economy, as well as the quality and accessibility of those jobs.

Attention must be paid to job quality when seeking to increase economic equity through climate policy and investments.

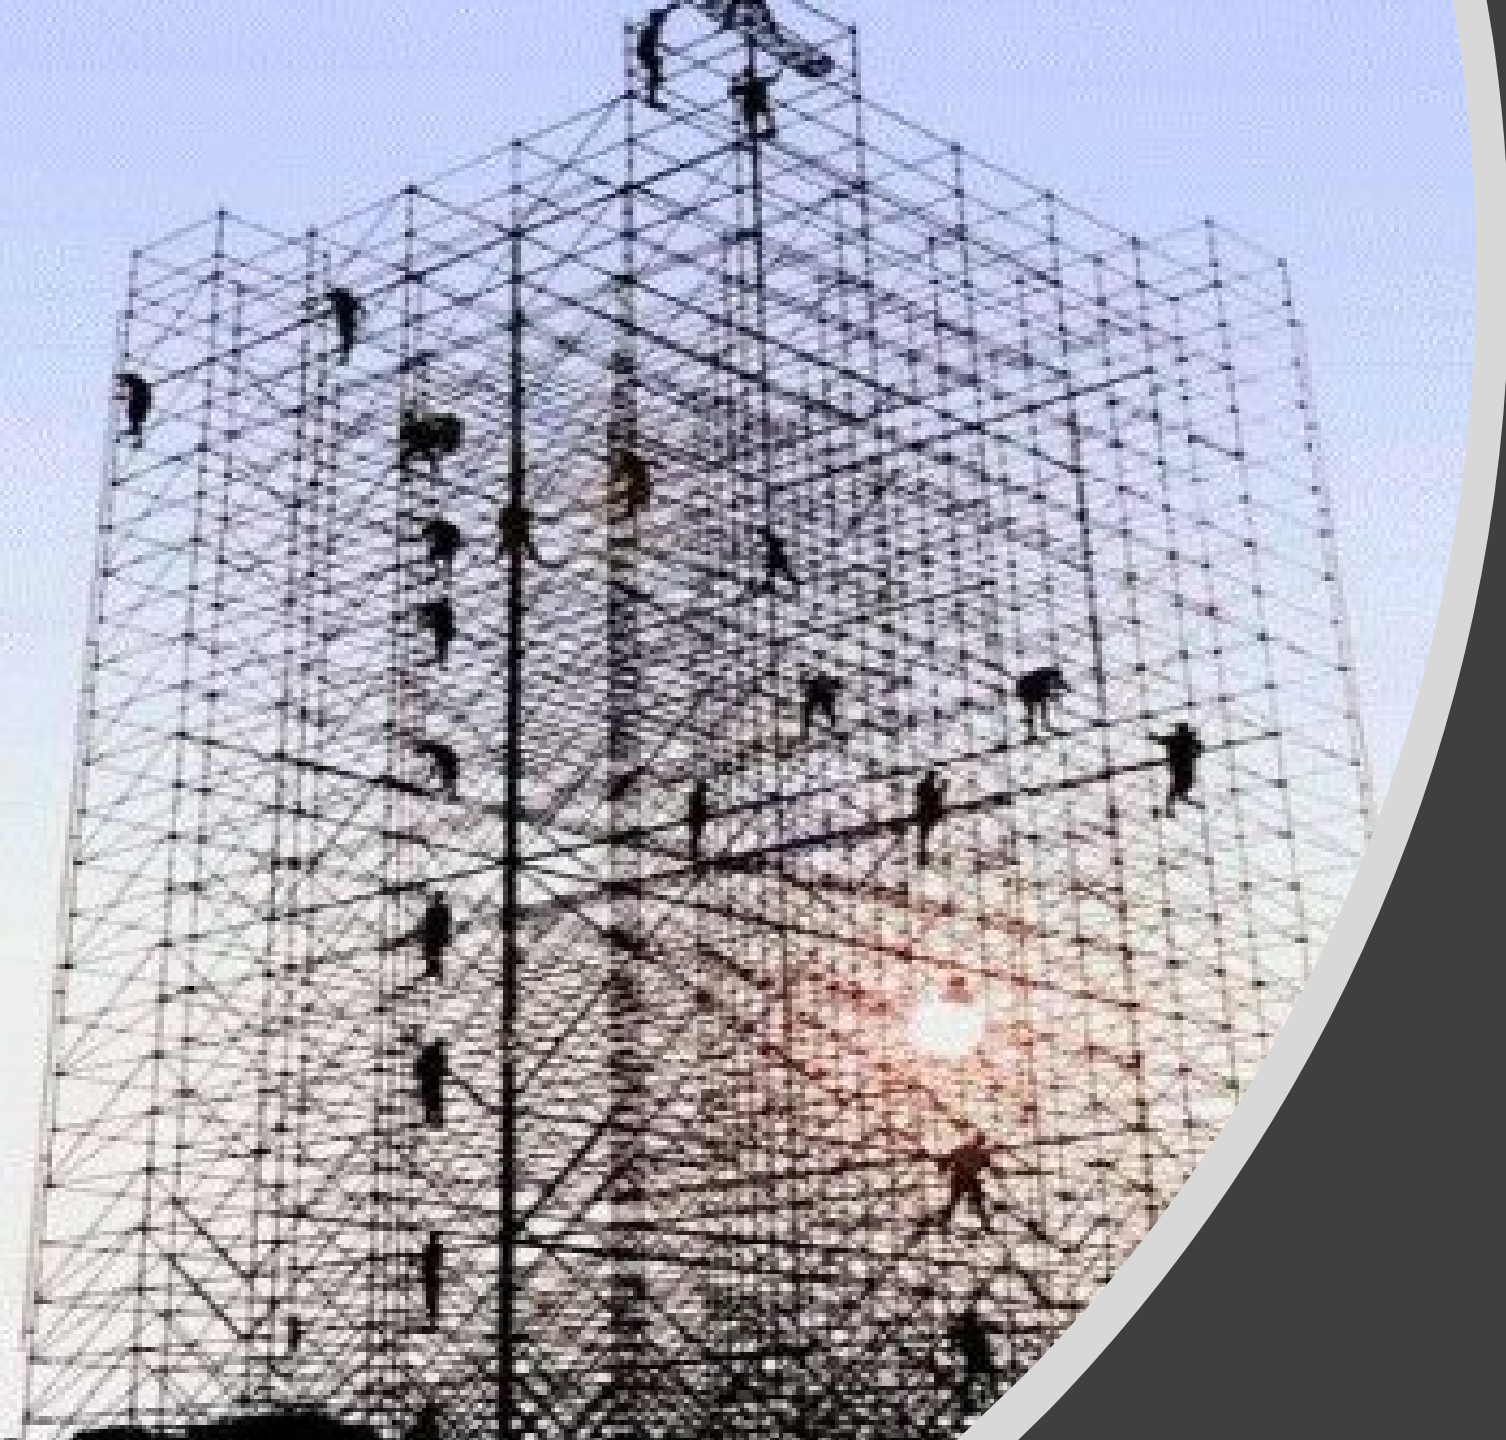

Deliberate interventions are necessary to advance job quality and access as California transitions to a carbon neutral economy.

The greatest opportunity to increase equity is demand for accessible, high-quality jobs.
